

King's Children.

FROM LANARK, ILL.

DEAR JUNIORS:—I have been thinking for some time of writing for the Kings' Children. We are getting along nicely, although during the winter there was a great deal of sickness. We are glad to tell you, that our Juniors are learning the way to Christ. A few weeks ago two of them, Vera Grossman and my niece Iva Lichty, were made willing to follow him, and were buried with him in baptism. God bless them and bless all who are true children of the King.

A few months ago all the children who could, brought a nickle and told how they earned it, and the money was to be used for a Junior banner, which we expect to have ready for use by next Sunday. Why do we celebrate Easter? Who will tell me? Now boys and girls let us hear from you, and thank the Editor for giving us such a nice paper as the Kings' Children. Can't we hear from our little friend Emma McFaden, of Carleton. We heard her papa speak of her so often when he was holding meeting here last fall, that we almost feel as though we knew her. With best wishes for the Kings' Children I am your friend.

EMMA K. LICHTY.

I will say that the King's Children Easter service at this place was a success. The music was appropriate and well rendered. The recitations were first class. The society is grateful to Brother Ruff of Burr Oak for an illustration placed upon the blackboard, and for the instruction given. The decorations were beautiful. Our society is flourishing. We would all like your paper, but owing to hard times we cannot take it now.

Book and Tract Work.

SATAN'S TAFFY DISHES.

WHEN Emma was a little girl, her mamma made her some taffy, and placed the dish in an outer house or shed to cool. When she went out to get the dish of taffy, there sat in it, three little mice, winking and blinking, and they were soon killed. Quite a mouse trap, was it not?

SATAN has his taffy dishes setting around for young people. Owen, do you remember the icy porch? but Warsaw is not the only place. Now, I will not tell you the names of the dishes, but I will elsewhere.

I HAVE thought for some time that there ought to be a tract for little boys and girls, and I have made one of the incident referred to above, and we will soon have out a tract for little boys and girls, called Satan's Taffy Dishes.

It will be about four pages, and the first page will contain a cut, made from a drawing especially for this purpose, by an artist in Chicago, and I am sure the little tract with its quaint illustration, will do good, and I am going to ask the little boys and girls help scatter it.

THE firm who makes the cut said it "would be neat and artistic." I just have notice that it is being completed. We all know Brother Gnagey will do his part when it comes to paper and type, and he will announce when it is ready. Look out for it, and scatter it, and help young people to keep from getting into Satan's taffy dishes.

IT is doubtful if people would be so very much better or happier if they were all healthy and full-fed and able to read Homer in the original. It is grace, it is goodness, that makes life sweet.—Christian Leader.

Sisters' S. C. E.

FROM MILLEDGEVILLE, PA.

As I have been selected to report, in a measure, the workings of our Sisters' Society of Christian Endeavor, I will give you an idea of our work. Our regular meetings are held on each alternate Friday afternoon. At present our principal work consists in making sun-bonnets, and oilcloth mitts. Just now the demands equal or exceed the supply. At our last meeting we decided by vote, that the money sent by our Society to the National Treasurer should be used to aid in filling the Theological chair in the Ashland College. We also decided that each member of the Society should make something to send to the Convention, to be sold for the benefit of the College. Two of our workers, sister Lizzie Fike and sister Sue Livengood have moved away this spring. We miss them very much. Sister Mary Baer is our president.

FROM HARRISONBURG, VA.

As I was appointed by the Sister's society for Christian Endeavor at Bethlehem, to report through the EVANGELIST occasionally, the working of the society, I will endeavor to write in its interest. Sister Laura Grossnickle came to us March 1, and organized a society which is working grandly. We had our first public meeting March 19. It was a success. Good recitations and grand music made up the program. One brother said it made him so happy that he felt like shouting. We learn already that the society is an auxiliary through which much good can be accomplished. The sisters are making garments of different kinds and are very much interested in the work. We feel sure of its success, with Sisters Hammer and Koontz to guide it for us. They are wide awake sisters, to every interest of the church. We hope for a bright and prosperous future for this society as well as others. My husband who is pastor of the Rockingham church, was at the public meeting of the society at Mt. Olive, and reports it in a good working condition. May the Lord bless the work.

THE habit of faltering and distinguishing and concealing, and putting forward the edge of a truth, instead of showing boldly the full face of it, at last leads men into an insincerity so habitual that they really do not know when they speak the truth or not.—Cardinal Manning.
